The Betel Chewing Traditions in South-East Asia (Images of Asia) Dawn F. Rooney

Betel chewing is one of the most ancient and widespread traditions of the peoples of South-East Asia, and encompasses an estimated one-tenth of the world's population. Although the ingredients of the betel quid are indigenous, the habit was probably introduced to the region by traders and merchants from India some 2,000 years ago. Illustrated throughout, this book offers a unique account of betel chewing as an integral part of daily ritual; it spans all social levels and includes both male and female users. Dawn F. Rooney also traces the origin of the custom, and examines its ingredients and associated paraphernalia.
