This is the fourth edition of author Jan Dalhuisen's leading work on transnational and comparative commercial and financial law, covering a wide range of complex topics in the modern law of international commerce, finance, and trade. In a significant departure from earlier editions, the work is now divided into three volumes, each of which can be used independently or as part of the complete work. It is an unrivaled guide for students and practitioners, and all three volumes may be purchased individually or as a single, complete, three volume boxed set. *** "Volume 1: Introduction: The New Lex Mercatoria and Its Sources (Fourth Edition)" - This first volume covers the introductory material: historical sources, legal systems, foundations of private law, the forces of transnationalization, and the development of the modern law merchant or lex mercatoria as a largely autonomous finance-driven event.
